

A STUDY OF MARK 11:22

Written by Dr. John E. Russell Sr - Last Updated Friday, 25 January 2019 19:26

A STUDY OF MARK 11:22

In the morning as Jesus and his disciples walked along, they saw the fig tree. It was dried up all the way down to the roots.

Peter remembered. He said to Jesus, "Rabbi, look! The fig tree you put a curse on has dried up!"

"Have faith in God," Jesus said.

Mark 11:20-22, NIrV

και αποκριθεις ο ιησους λεγει

and I respond the Jesus I say

αυτοις εχετε πιστιν

to all of you [I] command you to have [the] faith

θεου

A STUDY OF MARK 11:22

Written by Dr. John E. Russell Sr - Last Updated Friday, 25 January 2019 19:26

of God [constantly]

Mark 11:22 Greek New Testament (Westcott-Hort)

NOTE: The following translations translate θεου “of God”:

Young's Literal Translation

Modern King James Version

Literal Translation of the Holy Bible

Apostolic Bible Polyglot

Bible in Basic English

Douay-Rheims Bible

Geneva Bible, 1587

A STUDY OF MARK 11:22

Written by Dr. John E. Russell Sr - Last Updated Friday, 25 January 2019 19:26

God gives us faith to be justified. We exercise it for the New Birth, the Baptism of the Holy Spirit and everything else that is according to God's will as revealed in the Bible. The point is, use the faith that God has given us—not a human substitute such as mental assent.